Kite Title Is Up in the Air

Mrs. Harry P. King of Columbus, O., points to her kite which remained in the air for 38 hours and thus bettered the "world championship housewife's kite flying record" of Mrs. Doris Acosta, also of Columbus. With Mrs. King are her children, Norman, 7 (seated); Douglas, 12, and Margaret Ellen, 3. The two boys helped her keep the kite aloft until a rain brought it down. Mrs. Acosta had previously claimed the world endurance title of 35½ hours, but she conceded Mrs. King to be the winner and new world champ.

Communist Master Plan For Strikes, Revolt Is Unfolded

By M. L. STEPHENSON
NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—A Communist master plan for general strikes and revolt—according to the rules of military sciences—was unfolded before a federal court jury here yesterday.
The prosecutor of 11 Communist party leaders read from a Communist document which bristled with such words as "armed insurrection," "revolutionary positions," "putschism," "revolutionary upsurge," and "mobilization of the masses."
A copy of this Communist program was identified by Louis F. Budenz, former Communist official who renounced the party in 1945 and returned to the Roman Catholic church.
Budenz testified that the party had demanded his loyalty to Premier Stalin as the leader of Communist world revolution in all countries, including the United States. The witness said some of the demands being tried on charges of conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the U. S. government by force and violence, had taken such a loyalty pledge in Moscow.
Budenz was the first witness called by the government in the ten-week-old trial.
The defense got an offer of help yesterday from Earl Browder, deposed leader of the U. S. Communist party who has been attacked recently by the Daily Worker, the party's official publication.
Browder offered himself as a defense witness, saying he made the public announcement to spike rumors that he would be a prosecution witness.
Browder, who was general secretary of the party several years ago, said he was prepared to testify that Communist policy always has been opposed to forcible overthrow of the U. S. government. Hitting back at The Daily Worker, he said it printed an "absurd" report that he was preparing to enter the Roman Catholic church.

FAMILY OF FIVE PERISHES IN FIRE

CIRCLEVILLE, March 24—(AP)—A family of five persons burned to death early today when fire destroyed their tenant house on a farm, 12 miles northwest of here.
The victims were:
Leonard Estep, 28, tenant farmer; his wife Frances, 23, and their three children, Jean, 6; Beverly, 4, and Jolee Lee, 17 months.
They lived on the Earl Miller farm on Route 104.
A neighbor discovered the fire about 5 a. m. and called the Circleville fire department. The neighbor said she observed no activity about the house until the firemen arrived.
Two hours later, Sheriff Charles Radcliff of Pickaway county and deputies had removed three bodies from the debris of the frame house. The bodies of the three children were found on the springs of a bed, which had fallen through the floor.
The father's body was found later in a downstairs bedroom and that of the mother beside a coal stove in the living room. A five-gallon kerosene can, containing some fuel, stood nearby.
Sheriff Radcliff expressed belief the fire started when the stove exploded.
George H. Burnside, father of Mrs. Estep, said she usually arose about 4:30 a. m. to prepare breakfast for her husband. The husband was an employee of the Brightman Manufacturing Company in Columbus.
David Laning, another neighbor, said he saw the fire at 5:15 a. m. and drove in his car to the Estep home.
The story and a half house was ablaze, he added, and heat was so intense he could not get near it. He said he thought he heard a scream as he drove up the driveway.

FEPC O. K. BY HOUSE; REP. WETZEL OPPOSES

BY REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, March 24—(AP)—The leftist oratorical wave in the General Assembly this session swept an Ohio FEPC bill to passage in the house Wednesday.

The vote was 70 to 61. It followed nearly four hours of intense debate.
Spectators filled galleries to the end. Several kept score during the six roll call votes on changes proposed from the floor. The ban on lobbyists in the rear of the house chamber was lifted so they could have standing room.
Senators after their session crossed the state house to listen to the bill. They will be the next to work over the controversial administration-sought bill. Committee hearings probably will start in two or three weeks, a member said.
Eight Republicans joined 62 Democrats to pass the measure in the house. Seven Democrats voted with 54 Republicans against it. Three Republicans didn't vote.

The proposal makes it an unfair labor practice for employers of more than 12 people to discriminate because of race or religion in hiring and firing workers. Labor unions could not discriminate on membership.

A five-member fair employment practices commission would be created to investigate complaints of discrimination and correct them. They would ask courts to enforce their orders. Violators would be subject to contempt action. A major amendment by Rep. Gordon C. Renner (R-Hamilton) seeks to keep Communists out of Ohio industry. Nine Democrats opposed it.
Other changes approved amid verbal fireworks would:
Require previously exempt religious and fraternal organizations which plugged for FEPC to abide by its regulations. The change offered by Rep. Morton Neff (D-Lucas) was adopted by voice vote.

Prevent the FEPC commission from designating agents or organizations to make investigations instead of its own employees. By Rep. William J. Hart (D-Cuyahoga). Voice vote.

Remove a ban against questioning or keeping records of prospective employees' race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry. By Rep. George B. Marshall (R-Franklin). Adopted 67 yes to 65 no.

Rep. Morton C. Anderson (D-Franklin) sought unsuccessfully to substitute a voluntary educational FEPC program for the compulsory plan in the bill. His amendment lost 67 no to 60 yes.

KIDNAPS GIRL FRIEND NEAR SALINEVILLE

Kansas City Man, 38, Forces Girl To Walk Three Miles

LISBON, March 24—Isaac Fitzwater, 38, of Kansas City was today charged with breaking and entering and assault and battery of two women, after an incident Wednesday caused the sheriff and deputies to scour the woods near Salineville in a manhunt.

Sheriff Howard Clark was called to the home of Mrs. Arthur Clark Wednesday afternoon and told that Fitzwater broke into her home and took away her sister, Betty Carter, 22, at the point of a "gun."

In doing so, he struck Mrs. Clark with the gun. Fitzwater, it was learned, had known the Carter girl in Kansas City.

Forced Hike
He forced her to walk through three miles of woods, threatening her with a razor. The pair got a ride into Minerva where they were apprehended by the state highway patrol in the bus station.

Miss Carter was badly scratched by triars. She said Fitzwater intended to make her accompany him to Kansas City.

The gun used by Fitzwater, turned out to be a piece of pipe.
Fitzwater was given a hearing this morning by Justice Felix Butch and pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and assault and battery on Miss Carter, but not guilty to a similar charge on Mrs. Clark.

He was bound over to the grand jury. Bonds of $1,000 each were set on the assault and battery charges and $2,000 on breaking and entering.

Welfare of Urban, Farm Folk Related, Speaker Declares

COLUMBUS, March 24—(AP)—The welfare of city folk is permanently intertwined with the welfare of farm people, the president of Michigan State college told Ohio farmers today.

In a speech before a general session of the Farm and Home week at Ohio State university, President John A. Hannah reviewed the history of land-grant colleges and agricultural progress.

Attendance at the program, which will extend Friday, mounted toward its 10,000 goal today. Official registration last night was 6,348. The farmers are attending scores of sessions, all designed to help solve problems on the farm.

Discussing the link between city and farm people, Hannah added:
"For example, I think country people should welcome the developing tendency to extend home demonstration and 4-H club work into cities."

"In Michigan, we have put our first 4-H club agent into the city of Detroit, and we are confident the principles and practices that have made 4-H clubs so useful in the rural and suburban areas will be just as successful when applied to city children."

Hannah said he believed the land-grant college has been successful "only to the degree that it has been faithful to its fundamental mission of service to the state."

More than 400 Ohio 4-H club leaders received honors for their years of service today as a part of the Farm and Home week program.

The leaders were presented "clovers" in recognition for completion of 5, 10, 15, 20 and 25 years' service at an annual honor banquet held in Baker hall.

Bliss Company Profits Correspond To 1947

A substantial decrease in sales during 1948 is indicated by the E. W. Bliss company's annual financial report. Although net profits for the year were almost identical to those of 1947, a large amount was made up by the sale of the company's Brooklyn plant in 1948.

Profit last year was $2,285,368, as compared to $2,285,374 in 1947. Of the former amount, $483,851 was realized from the plant sale.
In both 1947 and 1948 the profit per share was $3.34, based on the number of shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1948.

The Bliss Co. shows $16,081,573 in total assets.

Iranian Minister Wars Russia Of Any False Moves

BY KINGSBURY SMITH
(World Copyright 1949 by International News Service)
PARIS, March 24—Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Ashgar Hekmat has warned Russia that any attempt to occupy Iran on the excuse that U. S. aid constitutes a threat to the Soviet Union, will be regarded as "an act of aggression."

Hekmat, in an exclusive message to International News Service, sent on behalf of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, denied categorically that Iran is being converted into a military base for Western Allies.

"U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson confirmed Hekmat's statement yesterday when he denounced Soviet charges that the U. S. is preparing bases in Iran. He referred to 'intensified pressure' on Iran by Russian propagandists."

Hekmat, whose oil-rich Middle-East nation shares a vast 1,000 miles border with the USSR, told INS:

"We shall never permit Iran to be used for aggressive purposes against the USSR."

No Incidents

The foreign minister stressed that no incidents have taken place in Iran which would justify Russia's invocation of the key article six of the Soviet-Iranian treaty.

This article permits Moscow to dispatch forces to Iran in case "a third power makes an effort by armed intervention in Iran or uses Iranian territory as a base for military attack against Russia."

Hekmat's warning to the Kremlin comes on the heels of persistent reports that Russia may invoke the treaty. In February, Moscow sent a stiff note to Tehran, accusing Iran of threatening the Soviet border by building forts in the area.

Four days ago Moscow radio attacked the Iranian government for allegedly permitting the building of airfields, ports and communication facilities "in the interests of American military and political expansion."

In reference to this latter point, the foreign minister declared:

"No military airfield has yet been constructed except those built during the war to help the USSR. Any military airfield that may be constructed in the future will be used only for our defense purposes in the same way as those existing now."

Hekmat stressed that security measures now being taken in Iran, are of purely a defensive character. The minister explained that the invocation of Article six applies only to a case in which preparations have been made for operations and an armed attack on Russia.

He said that this applied to preparations by "counter-revolutionary forces and partisans of the Czarist regime," adding that "creation of such a situation is inconceivable."

Asked whether Soviet attempts to make use of Article six would be considered an act of aggression, Hekmat replied:

"Certainly it would be considered as an act of aggression and all the more so since both countries are members of the United Nations and under the charter both are bound to submit any complaint to the security council before taking any other steps."

Filmland Awards Will Be Presented At Fete Tonight

BY HOWARD C. HEYN
HOLLYWOOD, March 24—(AP)—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences hands out its 1948 Oscar show, and it looks like England's show-at-last.

It will be here in Hollywood, then, that my pals will high-tail it to believe Sir Laurence Olivier and his majestic "Hamlet" should win the best actor and "best film" awards.

Jane Wyman could get the nod as best actress in "Johnny Belinda." Of course (here comes the hedging) if voting among the 1,967 Academy members follows a strictly American pattern, "Johnny Belinda" will make "Hamlet" move over.

Miss Wyman's only serious worry, I think, is Olivia DeHavilland's performance in "The Snake Pit." And Olivier could be displaced as best actor by Lew Ayres, also in "Johnny Belinda."

A British picture has never won the top award. This year, for the first time, two British films, "Hamlet" and "The Red Shoes" were nominated. Other contenders are "Johnny Belinda," "The Snake Pit" and "The Treasure of Sierra Madre."

With Olivier and Ayres on the list of best actor nominees are Montgomery Clift ("The Search"), Dan Dailey ("When My Baby Smiles at Me") and Clifton Webb ("Sitting Pretty"). Clift was nominated for the same honor two years ago, for his "Henry V."

Miss Wyman and Miss DeHavilland are competing with Ingrid Bergman ("Joan of Arc"), Irene Dunne ("I Remember Mama") and Barbara Stanwick ("Wrong Number") for best actress Oscars.

By usual Hollywood standards, tonight's 21st annual awards will be a modest event, held for the first time in the Academy's own 950-seat theater. The program has been condensed (on paper) to 90 minutes.

Clips from winning pictures of the past, a feature of previous programs, have been eliminated. But Turn to FILMLAND, Page 8

BUS HITS TRUCK, TWO PERSONS HURT

Gasoline Spills from Truck In Accident Near East Liverpool

Two persons were injured in a collision between a Valley Transit Co. bus and a gasoline tank truck on Route 7, between East Liverpool and Wellsville, at 3:40 p. m. Wednesday.

The state highway patrol said the injured were Susie Chepault, Wellsville, bruised chin, and Mrs. A. W. Phillips, Wellsville, sprained neck. They were both bus passengers.

The bus, operated by William B. Swaney, 39, of East Liverpool struck the rear of the truck in attempting to pass. The truck, driven by Charles F. Rudibaugh, 30, of R. D. 1, East Liverpool, struck the bank on the right side of the road and overturned.

Rudibaugh was uninjured. Gasoline from the truck spilled over the highway and the Wellsville fire department was summoned. It did not ignite, however.

The front of the bus was damaged and the front and top of the truck. A car driven by William M. Palm, 22, of R. D. 1, Wellsville, side-swiped two other cars on Route 30, one mile north-east of East Liverpool at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

Drivers of the other cars were Charles R. Williamson, 35, of East Liverpool and Gene J. Leib, 25, of St. Paul, Minn. All three autos were damaged, but no one injured.

Winnie Arrives for Speech

Winston Churchill gives his famous "V-for-victory" sign on arrival in New York aboard the Queen Elizabeth. With him is Mrs. Churchill. The wartime prime minister of Great Britain is in this country to make a speech at Cambridge, Mass., on March 31. He was met at the dock by several hundred pickets protesting the Atlantic Pact. Churchill's speech at Fulton, Mo., three years ago foreshadowed the pact, and he hinted that his forthcoming speech might be just as important.

Conveyor To End At East Liverpool

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 24—Ohio Valley Coal and Steel Co. executives were in a crowd of about 1,000 that heard H. B. Stewart Jr. of Akron explain his proposed Ohio river to Lake Erie industrial conveyor belt in East Liverpool Wednesday night.

Ending speculation, he revealed the river terminal definitely will be located here.

The president of the Riverlake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc., promised savings ranging up to $45 million annually for cheaper ore and coal transportation costs for area steel plants.

The estimated savings is based on the belt line's maximum yearly capacity of 52 million tons. Stewart said, Even at minimum operations the conveyor could handle 30 million tons of raw material for steel mills at a savings of 20 million dollars, he claimed.

Specifically, Stewart promised his cheaper transportation would cut freight costs by 55 to 60 cents a ton for the mills at nearby Midland, Pa.—the closest to the Ohio river terminal proposed here.

Dog Warden Offers Pup To Good Home

His heart warmed by the soulful look in the eyes of a Hound-boxer pup, Columbiana County Dog Warden Russell Reichenbach declined to execute the 10-month-old dog which had been given to him yesterday.

Reichenbach today offered to give the pup to the first person who promised it a good home.

The dog came from a farmer near Salem, who had two of the pups but decided that he could keep only one of them.

Also A Matter of Record

Eugene Dennis, acting as his own lawyer in the trial of 11 Communists advocating the overthrow of the United States, says it's a matter of record that Communists supported the Roosevelt administration and therefore were not trying to overthrow the government. The latter point is widely debatable. But it's a fact that Communists did support the Roosevelt administration.

But it's also a matter of record that Franklin D. Roosevelt said in a campaign broadcast from the White House on Oct. 5, 1944, that he never had sought and did not welcome the support of "any person or group committed to Communism or Fascism, or any other foreign ideology which would undermine the American system of government or the American system of competitive enterprise and private property." So much for the record.

It's only a matter of opinion that the same administration which didn't welcome the support of Communists as ideologists in 1944 welcomed them warmly in 1944 and in 1940 and 1936 as voters, especially in New York City. There were Americans at the time who dreaded the day when Communists might claim credit for their assistance at the polls. The day came—when Comrade Dennis dared to claim in a federal court that he and Franklin D. Roosevelt were political comrades-in-arms. They were, in the same sense that the Communists later were to become the working allies of Henry A. Wallace, who said he didn't like their ideology but had no objection to their votes.

Rankin Was Right

The political strategy behind the Rankin pension bill never was concealed. It called for putting members of the house of representatives on record for or against the bill. He reasoned that most of them would lack the courage to vote against a pension bill. He was right.

It turned out that way this week. Some of the same congressmen who voted off-the-record to knock out the bill's enacting clause lacked the courage to go on the record for a motion to send it back to committee. They were opposed to a pension grab as a matter of principle, but as a matter of politics they were for it. Representative Rankin, who introduced his bill in the first place to get even with members of his own party for what he thought was bad treatment, had not underestimated the level of congressional statesmanship. His cynicism was confirmed.

Newspapers containing the story of this sordid kind of politics and radio broadcasts describing it are not easy to explain to the rising generation. No adult who takes seriously the hope of maintaining self-government can relish evidence that it is breeding its own destruction in the form of greed and venality. But that's the way it is. That is the way it always will be when the people's representatives in congress put political survival ahead of personal principles.

A Man Named Boyd

The grand strategy and high politics of the fight between John L. Lewis and James Boyd, whose appointment as director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines was confirmed by the senate on Wednesday, are too grand and high to be comprehended.

Few members of United Mine Workers, who are on strike because Boyd's appointment was offensive to their president, wouldn't know the man if they saw him. Until he was singled out for personal attack by Lewis, Boyd was just another federal appointive official.

Perhaps it is significant that Boyd is under attack because Lewis claims the bureau chief is incompetent to supervise safety in coal mines. The fact is that the bureau has only limited authority in this field. It can make safety recommendations but it cannot enforce them. The only feasible way to close an unsafe mine, unless an order to do so is issued by state authority, is for the members of United Mine Workers to do so through their own safety committees.

This has not been the policy of the U. M. W. Mr. Lewis and his union have taken the curious position of questioning Director Boyd's ability to enforce safety regulations which he lacks the power to enforce. They do have the power to enforce the regulations but have not chosen to do so, which comes back to grand strategy and high politics.

Big Government Cancer

Senator Taft says he will vote for tax increases if there is a substantial deficit at the end of the government's fiscal year. He sees no hope of cutting down spending.

Senator Byrd, who also has been a symbol of economy-mindedness in Congress, declares that he doesn't see how the federal payroll can be held down as long as bureaus keep being added to government. Following a slight postwar drop, the federal payroll has been rising for the last year. At the end of January, the civil service commission reported that 2,094,777 people were working for the executive departments, 90,000 more than a year ago.

As more information is made available to the public about cancer, the similarity of uncontrolled multiplication of cells in the human body and uncontrolled multiplication of bureaucrats in the body politic will occur to many taxpayers.

In each case, the only hope of cure lies in early detection of the affliction and positive measures to stop it before it gets out of hand. When two of the most resolute United States senators are willing to admit they don't know what can be done about the tendency of big government to burden citizens with an unhealthy multiplicity of payroll parasites who produce nothing but red tape and deficits, the case begins to sound hopeless.

Two Attacks On Common Problem

More than 100 leaders of business, labor and government, both state and federal, recently met in Washington at the President's invitation to discuss industrial safety. On their return to their several hundred communities they will try to help reduce the average annual toll of 2,000,000 industrial accidents, 16-18,000 deaths and 90,000 permanent disabilities.

They will be leaders in a campaign in which all must work together to prevent injuries—and the great majority of them are preventable—through greater safety protection by the employer and greater care by the worker.

At the same time eastern coal miners are engaged in a work stoppage. Their union president, John L. Lewis, states that the stoppage is a mourning period for the miners killed and injured last year.

Without disparaging honest sorrow, it seems to us that Mr. Lewis is only adding economic injury to physical injury. Not strikes and recriminations but co-operation, as represented in the Washington conference, is surely the better way of reducing death and injury among our workers.

The Stars Say

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

AN intriguing and unpredictable state of affairs is read from the predominant astral aspects, in which an element of the mysterious and hidden may be expected to figure.

This factor should be deftly used for telling results, affecting important transactions, in which ideals, imagination, glamor or subtlety may enter into business or personal interests. Surprising eliminations come under this subtle rule, affecting the practical as well as the emotional life or feelings. Dreams "come true" if carefully engineered to realistic results.

For the Birthday

These whose birthday it is, may find themselves anchored in a period of the strange, unique, subtle and out-of-the-ordinary in all its relations, business as well as emotional or spiritual. With hidden undercurrents to be deftly manipulated it might be that ideals, aspirations, dreams or romantic thrills may materialize. The intuitions, "hunches" or other form of the intangible or bizarre could be actors in attaining practical results. Subtle urges may be heeded.

A child born on this day may attain surprising returns by use of unique, strange or subtle talents, faculties or inner urges. If safely and practically manipulated, feelings and emotions are in ready implements for success.

Vitamin C Has Many Uses

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Each year we are learning more about what the vitamins mean to each one of us. For example, take Vitamin C, also known as ascorbic acid. Among other things, it is required to prevent scurvy. That is a disease in which there is bleeding from the gums, loss of weight and strength, and some bleeding under the lining membrane around the bones.

Vitamin C is found in goodly amounts in the citrus fruits—orange, lemons and grapefruit—as well as in tomatoes and vegetables. By including these foods in the diet, enough Vitamin C will be obtained to supply the body with what it needs under normal conditions.

Vitamin C, however, has been found useful in the treatment of other conditions than scurvy. For example, the healing of wounds progresses satisfactorily only when enough Vitamin C is present in the tissues. Operations or injuries seem to increase the need for Vitamin C.

It has also been stated that, in all cases of long-continued disorders affecting the stomach and bowels, a lack of ascorbic acid may be present.

A low reserve of vitamin C may be present if there is an infection of several weeks' duration. If an operation is to be performed, it is important that any deficiency of vitamin C be corrected before the operation is undertaken.

It has been found, also, that vitamin C is necessary for the use of certain amino acids by the body. Amino acids are the very vital substances which make up the proteins found in such foods as meat, milk and eggs, and these amino acids are needed for the repair of worn-out tissues, as well as for the growth of new tissue.

Needs Protein
A baby born before the normal time, that is, a premature infant, needs a large amount of protein. If the baby does not get enough vitamin C, abnormal conditions develop because the amino acids from the proteins are not properly used. This condition is quickly corrected by giving vitamin C in the proper amount. Thus, it is important that the premature baby be given daily doses of vitamin C as soon as possible.

There would also seem to be some value in vitamin C in the prevention of heat stroke and heat exhaustion. It has been suggested that persons exposed to excessive heat and high humidity will be benefited by taking vitamin C each day.

This is a good place for the reader to ask himself if he has had his quota of vitamin C today.

Boyle's COLUMN

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—News item—"professor says women are natural peacemakers and proposes they rule world for next thousand years. Predicts there would be fewer wars."

It was the year 3,001, the thousandth anniversary of woman's rule of the world.

This morning dawned cold and clear. A skinny, undersized man and a runty boy, both clad in patchy rabbit fur, crawled shivering from their hill cave.

The two were father and son. With numb hands they began to collect bits of firewood, glancing constantly around to see that no wild animal crept upon them. From inside the cave came the sound of heavy snoring.

"We must hurry and make the cave warm," said the man nervously, "or your Mother will beat us with a club when she awakens."

The little boy sighed moodily. "Sometimes I wish we hunted for the food and ruled the cave instead of Mother," he said.

"Rule the cave?" snorted his Father. "Why, boy, there was a time when men ruled the whole world. That was the time when the earth was full of people."

"OTHER PEOPLE in the world besides you and me?" asked the boy. "How odd that sounds. I don't believe you."

"Yes, millions of people," insisted the father. "So many that even the wild animals were afraid of them."

"Now I know you are joking," said the son. "Animals afraid of people? That's ridiculous. 'We're afraid of animals.'"

"In the long ago it was all different," said the father. "I heard the tale from Grandpa who had it from his Grandpa who was told it by his Grandpa."

"Once people lived together in great cities and were ruled by man. They had weapons that could kill animals at great distances. They could put down their thoughts by making marks in stone and other men could see the marks and know what had been in their minds."

"What happened?" said the boy, who didn't believe a word of it.

"Well, the men turned their weapons against each other and there was a long series of great wars. Finally, women asked if they could rule. They weren't so pugnacious. And the men, weary of killing, agreed."

"And what happened then?" said the boy, laughing to himself at the whole fairy tale.

"At first there was peace for a hundred years. But then, so Grandpa told me, power corrupted women, as it does all people. They became vain and greedy. And they fought among themselves, and war came again into the world."

"Women first fought by nations, destroying each other's men and children. Then came the great variety wars—first, the war of the girdles and then the war of the brassieres."

"What are brassieres and girdles?"

"NO ONE REMEMBERS," said the father. "Perhaps they were terrible religions of some kind. But their followers have all died out now."

"And then came the great five-hundred year war of the colors. Women used to be blondes, redheads or brunettes. The blondes and redheads got together and wiped out the brunettes. Then the blondes and redheads warred to extinction."

"What are we?" inquired the child.

"We can't tell because there isn't anyone left to compare colors with," said the father.

"And what was the last war about?"

"Me," said the father. "I was the only man left in the world. But there were two women. They fought over me. Your mother won. She is a strong woman."

"And when shall we finally have peace in the world?" asked the boy.

"Soon," said the man. "Soon—when your mother and I are gone. You'll have peace, all to yourself alone."

Just then a deep contralto voice growled sleepily from the cave:

"What are you two silly menfolk doing out there?"

The boy—the little snitch—ran fawning toward the cave.

"Coming, Mother dear," he said. "Father's been telling me lies again."

Vegetable Prices Lower, Several Meats Are Higher

By The Associated Press

Housewives in most cities will find many vegetable prices lower this week. Several cuts of lamb and pork are slightly higher; beef and veal are a trifle lower, and dairy products generally unchanged.

Few of the retail price changes amount to more than a couple of pennies either up or down.

Heavier supplies of snap beans, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, peppers, onions and grapefruit in most retail marketing centers caused green grocers to trim prices wherever possible to satisfy customers shopping carefully for competitive bargains.

Lettuce, higher last week as demand picked up with the arrival of springlike weather in many sections of the country, eased as much as 3 1/2¢ a head as shipments increased.

Only sweetpotatoes were generally a little firmer in price. In the east, Maine potatoes were a penny or two higher, reflecting a temporary shortage of freight cars for commercial shipments, produce men said.

Lamb continued last week's gentle uptrend resulting from short supplies and the windup of the seasonal crop. Most buyers attribute the advance in pork cuts to increased demand by consumers substituting pork for high-priced lamb.

Veal Gains

Veal was said to have recovered somewhat from the slump of three or four weeks ago, but still was not as high in price at it was in early February. New light-weight calves from dairy farms began arriving in markets in volume this week, and tended to soften veal prices.

Elsewhere in the food picture

there were these reports on supply prospects for the coming months: Production of little pigs in Iowa—the nation's number one sow-feeding state—for December, January and February, was more than double that of the same period last year.

The number of chicks put into broiler houses for "finishing" some three months ago was nearly half again as large as a year ago.

The hatchery production for the nation last month was around 144,000,000 new chicks, 47 per cent more than in 1948.

The Grocery Manufacturers of America this week volunteered an answer to the question: Why haven't retail food prices come down as rapidly as the prices of many raw materials?

"The time lapse between lower prices of raw farm products and the lowering of retail prices is caused partly by the time required to process and distribute food products," the association's news letter said.

"Lower prices in the raw material market today appear as cost reductions in foods processed some days, weeks or months in the future. For the same reason, when raw materials prices are rising, about the same time elapses before higher prices are paid by consumers."

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale price index this week was unchanged from the week before at $5.79, and 13.8 per cent below the year-ago figure of $6.72. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Ohio Institutions Are Called Unsafe

COLUMBUS, March 24—(AP)—Ohio houses many of its wards in unsafe and antiquated buildings, says State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck.

Reporting on a department survey yesterday he said some buildings are more than 100 years old and a majority of the main units of various institutions were built before the turn of the century.

Patchwork repairs have kept them in operation, the director said. The survey was conducted by the department to help plan its institutional additions and betterment budget for the next two years. The budget will be presented Gov. Frank J. Lausche and the legislature.

Listed by the survey in the 100-year-old class were:

The superintendent's residence at Gallipolis state institute, originally constructed in 1831; one patient building at Summit county receiving hospital in Cuyahoga Falls, built in 1837.

The survey listed many other buildings erected before the turn of the century, including main buildings at both the Dayton and Cleveland state hospitals, built in 1855; main building at the Columbus and

8 Percent Jump In Jobless Pay Shown In State

COLUMBUS—Some 132,000 persons were seeking jobs through the local offices of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation as of February's end, an 8 per cent increase from the preceding month, BUC Administrator Frank J. Colopy reported today.

However, the total number of new applicants for employment during February was down 16 per cent from January. This, Colopy said, indicated that the unemployment rise was slowing down last month.

Colopy reiterated a previous statement to the effect that seasonal influences were still contributing to the increase in the number of jobless but that layoffs due to non-seasonal production cutbacks had played an important role in February. Material shortages — which have been easing — were of relatively minor consequence from the layoff standpoint last month.

In keeping with the overall economic situation, the BUC's Employment Service division filled 13,463 jobs last month, a 17 per cent drop from January and a 23 per cent decline from February, 1948. The number of unfilled jobs listed with the BUC at February's end—5,919—was 15 per cent below the figure for Jan. 31 and a new postwar low.

Though the decrease in the number of jobs filled was felt in all industrial groups, the wholesale and retail trades, manufacturing and fabrication of metals and machinery and domestic service bore the brunt of the drop. The declines were also general for all occupational groups, clerical and sales people being particularly hard hit.

The overwhelming majority of those seeking work through the BUC as of February's end were men. Women jobseekers totalled about 22.6%, practically no change from the figure as of Jan. 31.

CAN NAVY PLANES SINK AIR FORCE'S UNSYNKABLE B-36?

By JAMES J. STREIBIG
Associated Press Aviation Reporter
WASHINGTON, March 24—Could navy fighters shoot down the B-36 bomber in the stratosphere—where the air force says jets can't touch it?

The air force may make tests to find out. Navy fighters are built to different standards than land-based planes.

The air force has made no secret of its belief that the B-36, operating unescorted at 40,000 feet and higher, is virtually "unsinkable" as far as present type fighters are concerned.

1. The "unsinkability" story ignores the possibility of radical tactics—such as mid-air ramming, used by Russian pilots in both world wars—and radical equipment, such as guided or target-seeking missiles and air-borne cannon with proximity-fused shells.

2. The B-36 never has bucked navy fighters, either jet or propeller.

3. The air force has no interceptor fighter in service and so doesn't know what a plane built for the job can do.

Here is the story on B-36 interception.

Tests Made
Several hundred tests have been made using jet fighters, principally the F-46 Shooting Star. These have shown (1) that the jet planes tested require about 23 minutes to climb to altitudes, (2) that their engines have only about one-fourth sea-level power when eight miles up, while piston engines can draw nearly full power, and (3) in the thin air their small wings give them less maneuverability than the big bomber.

Navy planes are built to use less than 500 feet of deck instead of mile-long runways. They are powered for quick climb, and navy jets have auxiliary boosters known as afterburners that give them a double push in emergencies. The air force isn't using these yet but will have them on later model fighters.

The navy's outstanding propeller fighter, the F-4U Corsair, is reported to have run away from the B-36 at 40,000 feet and over. It is expected that the navy's newest jet fighters, the F-80 Mustang and the F-84 Thunderbolt, will do at least as well. Both are two-engine fighters.

The Mustang is rated unofficially at 600 miles an hour at 30,000 feet, or 25 MPH faster than the F-80 at sea-level, where a jet has peak power. The Mustang is still faster. Both navy planes are reported to have a much faster rate of climb than air force jets. They are understood to be able to get to 40,000 feet in about one-third the time it takes an F-80.

Up at that altitude the air pressure is only about one-tenth as great as at sea level. Navy planes and engines feel that just like other planes and engines. However, a different design in wings and the excess of power intended to provide quick takeoff and fast climb pay off in the all-but-empty regions of the sky.

The navy wing difference is what is known as higher wing-loading, or a smaller ratio of weight to wing area.

The navy tends to arm its fighters with 20MM. cannon, the same gun used on the B-36 instead of the .50-caliber machineguns common to air force fighters. That would reduce some of the advantage claimed for the giant bomber in air combat with jet fighters.

At his home in Damascus, Former School Teacher W. E. Cobbs reads with interest his favorite book, "Les Miserables."

W. E. COBBS, RETIRED TEACHER, STILL ENJOYS 'LES MISERABLES' PASSAGES

If ever a story was "one man's story," the man would be W. E. Cobbs of Damascus and the story would be "Les Miserables." Cobbs, a retired school teacher, has read and told this French classic of Victor Hugo's to approximately 1,600 children in 43 years as a teacher.

It was in 1899, his first year as a teacher, that he learned of the book. He commuted from the North Jackson one-room school to Sebring by train and walked to his Westville home. At the Sebring stop he met a telegraph operator, Arthur Baruch, and when the weather was bad sometimes spent the night with him. Baruch suggested that Cobbs read the book and when he didn't immediately secure the book, Baruch sent a two-volume set for him. This incident stands out as one of the most important as the teacher went through 48 years moulding boys and girls.

After Cobbs had read and re-read the story he brought it to class one day to expand on the history the youths were studying. He continued to read the story to each succeeding class. Its message was manifold, especially valuable in civics, social sciences and history.

He says that through the years students always seemed to look forward to the last period in the afternoon when he would reveal another portion of the story of Jean Valjean.

The leading character in the story, Jean, was one of Les Miserables. The title cannot be translated easily. Its approximate meaning is: The outcasts, unhappy, unlucky and downtrodden people. The theme of conflicts in Jean's life is clearly evident and his life offers a meaningful contrast with life in the United States.

The story was set in the era of the French revolution which, Cobbs reminds, gave many of the advances in government today known throughout the world. Through his book, seventh and eighth grade students, could follow the progress step by step.

He would take almost a year to read the book, many times telling fragments of the story and devoting part of the time to comparisons with the American way. The message of wealth and poverty was thoroughly absorbed by the interested class. It taught a valued lesson in honesty, he avers.

Hugo, who wrote Les Miserables about the time of the Spanish-American war, was exiled from France because of the exposure of French government tactics. He was later recalled with honors when the book received acclaim throughout the civilized world.

Taught in Five Schools
Cobbs spent most of his teaching career in Alliance schools, but also taught in Damascus, Westville, Sebring, Quaker Hill school and North Jackson.

Of the book, Cobbs says he hopes his students would read it three times: When young, when old and when old because Les Miserables contains food for thought at all ages.

He remarks that whenever former pupils visit him they always men-

Rep. Rogers Cited In Divorce Action

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—An attractive blonde bride of less than a year charges her husband's attachment for 67-year-old Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts wrecked her marriage.

Mrs. Eileen Diana Latta-Lawrence in a suit filed yesterday said her husband, Naval Captain Harold Alexander Latta-Lawrence, 47, had been on "close and intimate terms" with the child-wearing dean of Republican women in congress for 20 years, often visiting her hotel suite "late into the night."

Called from the floor of the house and told of the suit, Mrs. Rogers said it was "ridiculous."

Capt. Latta-Lawrence, described as tall, dark-haired and handsome, could not be reached for comment. A native of Toledo, Ohio, he once was a secretary of Mrs. Rogers.

The suit does not seek divorce but asks for separate maintenance and an accounting of their joint property. However, one clause said if a divorce should be asked later, Mrs. Latta-Lawrence wants at least $300 monthly alimony.

Mrs. Latta-Lawrence said even before the marriage in April, 1948, Mrs. Rogers influenced her life. She said her husband twice postponed the wedding in order to get Mrs. Rogers' consent to it.

Three new Oscars will be among the 27 major awards: One for best foreign language picture and two for best costume designing (in black-and-white and color films).
Early academy events were splashy banquet blowouts at the Biltmore or Coconut Grove, or fan-jammed floodlighted clambakes at Grauman's Chinese theater or the vast, barn-like Shrine auditorium.

Last year 5,600 persons thronged the shrine: this year half the spectators will hold press tickets. The rest will be nominees or presenters of awards. The public and even academy members, excepting the board of governors, will be excluded.

Bleachers for 850 were erected today outside the theater. Six searchlights, against last year's 15, were grouped around the entrance. Cost of the affair is estimated at $40,000—a far cry from the original plan of a $115,000 dinner party for 4,000 persons on a major studio sound stage.

Master of ceremonies will be Robert Montgomery. Last year's winners, Ronald Colman, Loretta Young, Edmund Gwenn and Celeste Holm, will present the awards in best actor, actress, supporting actor and supporting actress categories, respectively. Other Oscars will be presented by Louis Jourdan, Jeanne Crain, Ethel Barrymore, Deborah Kerr, Ava Gardner, Arlene Dahl and Glenn Ford.

COMMUNIST

We read by U. S. Attorney John F. X. McClellan. The prosecutor previously had told the jury that the 11 defendants held the key to a planned American revolution.
The document—the 1935 Communist program—called for "intense revolutionary work in the army and navy."

Eudene, formerly a member of U. S. Communist party's "Politburo" and now on the faculty of Fordham university, testified that as editor of a Communist newspaper he had to follow orders based on a world revolution program of the 1935 Communist in Moscow. He formerly was managing editor of The Daily Worker.

Eudene said Jack Stachel, the party's education director and one of the defendants, once criticized an article prepared for The Daily Worker because it failed to plug Stalin enough.
Eudene testified that three U. S. Communist leaders attended the seventh congress of the Communist International in 1935, which pledged loyalty to Stalin. He said they were Stachel, Browder, and Gilbert Green, Illinois state Communist chairman and a defendant in the conspiracy trial.

Riddled Pension Bill Up For Vote

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—Riddled by amendments, the Rankin veterans pension bill pushed toward a final vote in the house today.

Its opponents counted on making the bill so unappealing the house would wash its hands of the whole affair and pump it back into committee. In that event would kill off pension legislation for the present.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss), the bill's sponsor, said "we can win."
As originally called up, Rankin's bill provided for a pension of $90 a month to all World War I and II veterans at age 65, regardless of financial need.

As it came back before the house for its third day of debate, it looked something like a combined pension-bonus bill.

Before adjourning, the house tentatively accepted an amendment by Rep. Jacobs (D-Ind) knocking out the $90 pension figure and substituting what amounted to a deferred bonus proposal.

The Jacobs plan provides all veterans would be paid a flat $10 a month at age 65, plus an additional $1 a month for each month of war service and another $3 a month for service spent in an overseas theater of combat.

The house also adopted an amendment by Rep. Rogers (D-Fla). Pensions would be barred to veterans whose income is over $2,000 a year if unmarried, or $3,000 if married or with dependents.

Twice the house refused to exclude World War II veterans from pension benefits.

It first rejected an omnibus substitute for the Rankin bill offered by Rep. Huber (D-Ohio), and then turned down an amendment by Rep. Kearney (R-N.Y.) to limit pensions to World War I servicemen.

66 yes. But some expressed belief it would have passed if Speaker John F. Cantwell (D-Mahoning) had heard him an hour earlier. Tempers grew tant late in the debate before Anderson gained the floor.

Cantwell as speaker customarily doesn't vote. But he asked to be counted against Anderson's amendment and for the FEPC bill itself. "Just for the record," he explained.

Rep. Cedric A. Stanley (R-Warren) sought to strip the bill of a commission. He asked that FEPC violations be made misdemeanors. County prosecutors would be asked to prosecute violators, thus guaranteeing the right of trial by jury. His proposal lost 74 no to 55 yes.

Democratic leaders said amendments to eliminate commission agents and exemption for religious groups was agreed to previously when passage of the bill appeared doubtful.

Decision to make the changes followed Gov. Frank J. Lausche's recent appearance before a house Democratic caucus to urge passage of an FEPC bill, he added.

Renner said the legislature "must not take away the right to refuse employment to persons loyal to an enemy country." He explained that Ohio ranked third in war material production.

Two members of the house labor committee, which recommended passage of the bill, took exception to the amendment. They were committee chairman Ed Witmer (D-Starke) and Rep. Milton J. Tobin (D-Hamilton), a leading questioner of opponents at hearings.

Renner said the amendment would have no effect on unions whose officers refused to sign Taft-Hartley non-Communist affidavits. Voting against the amendment besides Witmer were Reps. J. H. Avellone (D-Cuyahoga), Michael J. Dumas (D-Lucas), Joseph A. Duber (D-Starke), Patrick J. Dunn (D-Tuscarawas), James R. Joyce (D-Jefferson), Bishop Kilpatrick (D-Trembly), Robert W. Reider (D-Ottawa) and L. G. Washburn (D-Summit).

Tobin was not recorded as voting on the amendment.
"Subversive activity is hooked on to this bill," Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel (R-Columbiana) told the house in advance of action on the Renner amendment.

He reminded representatives of a letter circulated among them and signed by Gus Hall of Cleveland as chairman of the Communist party of Ohio. The letter urged FEPC.

Wetzel said Hall was involved in the 1937 Republic steel strike at Warren. He now is one of the top U. S. Communists on trial in New York, he added.

Wetzel quoted Hall as saying at a Youngstown meeting two weeks ago that U. S. Communists will be with Russia in case of war.
Rep. Lowell Evers, a co-sponsor of the bill, replied that FEPC principles are not Communistic. The Communists are "hoping their support will be a stab in the back to FEPC," he added. Ron T. Omar (D-Barrett) (D-Mahoning) repeated defeat of FEPC will play into the hands of Communists.

Aluminum Company Explains Tag Woes

CLEVELAND, March 24—(UP)—Officials of the Aluminum Co. of America, in an effort to clarify the current aluminum license tag controversy, today blamed the use of a lighter gauge aluminum for the complaints rather than the use of aluminum as such.

The statement pointed out that ALCOA supplied the state of Ohio with 300,000 pound of an aluminum alloy 22-gauge coiled sheet, in a half-hard temper for the 1948 plates with "no complaints." In that year the state mixed aluminum plates with the steel ones and most drivers never knew the difference.

The present difficulty arose, officials said, when ALCOA could not deliver the required sheet aluminum for the 1948 plates and the state accepted a bid by one of ALCOA's competitors, who furnished 20 per cent lighter gauge aluminum in a soft annealed condition which had to be embossed to stiffen it.

ALCOA submitted as proof that aluminum has been used successfully for license plates in 28 other states.

The firm's sales engineers pointed out that the successful use of aluminum depends upon the right alloy, grade, thickness and temper.

Mine Coal Conveyor Taken To North Lima

LISBON, March 24—The Souders Engineering Co. of Lisbon today delivered one of the largest coal conveyors in the district to the Shedan Mining Co. of North Lima. Police escort was furnished by Sheriff Howard Clark to avoid any traffic accidents in the transportation of the huge machine to the Mahoning county mine.

The conveyor is guaranteed to move 200 tons of coal per hour, and will handle up to 400 tons an hour, Harvey Souders, head of the engineering company stated. The huge machine is 75-feet in length, and contains 70 shovels or flights operated by a 10-horse power motor in conveying coal from the mine level to the top of the coal tipples.

One Student Is Injured In Bowling Green Fire

BOWLING GREEN, March 24—(UP)—One male student was injured and about 24 others were routed when fire swept through half of a Bowling Green State university dormitory last night.

The injured student, Daniel Vilt of Cleveland, was cut on the hand by falling glass.

The fire, believed to have been caused by a broken gas pipe, was located in the North Dorm annex, a one-story frame structure. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Find Gas In Water Hunt

CLINTWOOD, Va.—Residents of this mining town drilled two wells hoping for water during a drought last fall and hit natural gas instead both times. It brought on one of the largest wildcat natural gas developments in the country.

The development, being financed by the Clinchfield Coal Corporation, sprawls over more than 1,000 acres of mountain land in three southwest Virginia counties. Engineers for the development have packed in the largest cable drilling equipment available and 10,000 feet of pipe. They plan to drill as deep as 10,000 feet into the Appalachians if necessary to strike a rich field.

Ancient Customs...

(This is the first in a series of unusual and interesting facts governing modern wedding customs. Watch for them.)

No. 1
the Wedding Band is Worn on the Fourth Finger, Left Hand...

Because the ancient Romans thought a special vein connected the fourth finger with the heart, we have always worn the wedding ring on it.

Modern brides and groom always find that "special" ring here because our assortments are so complete, our prices so reasonable.

FARMERS APPEAR READY FOR MORE REST THAN BEFORE

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—It looks as though many farmers are planning to give themselves and their overworked land a little more rest this year.

A government crop report yesterday showed producers are preparing to plant less crops for harvest this year than had been expected by agriculture department officials and farm leaders.

As for wheat, flaxseed, and rice, planting prospects for most other crops are below last year and well in line with recommendations of the government.

Department officials who had helped set up this year's farm program said the planting survey clearly indicated that many farmers want to make adjustments from high wartime levels of production.

Influencing them in this direction, these officials said, is the fact farm prices are less favorable than they were a year ago. In other words, the prospective prices did not offer sufficient incentive, they said, to encourage farmers to put in necessary overtime to produce extra supplies.

The report forecast a 1949 crop acreage of about 361,000,000 acres, or about 1,600,000 less than was seeded last year.

The report showed intended acreage reductions tend to be the largest in the case of crops where government price supports have been less effective.

A considerable reduction in the feed grain acreage was indicated, with corn plantings likely to be the smallest in more than 50 years.

It is estimated that each of the 30,000,000 stray cats in the United States eats about 50 birds a year.

Slain By Assassins

Slaying of Mrs. Ethel Underwood, 60, a Presbyterian missionary in Korea since 1917, by two masked assassins during a tea party at her home in Seoul, is described as "political" by authorities. The victim, the former Ethel van Wagoner of Kingston, Mich., was known to have been sympathetic to the conservative cause in Korea. (International Soundphoto)

One-Man Picket Line

YOUNGSTOWN, March 24—(AP)—A one-man picket line outside the offices of the county welfare agency won relief payments today for the 31-year-old picket's common-law wife and her four children. Welfare officials were still "considering" the case of the man himself. His sign read: "Welfare Personnel Unfair to Needy."

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Atlantic pact is the result of lessons learned in the brass-knuckle school of world affairs.

Glass opened in 1914 with World War I. We thought we could stay out. We couldn't.

Next class: League of Nations. We skipped this because we hadn't learned World War I's lesson: That what happens in Europe involves us.

Next class: World War II. This was the unforgettable lesson Hitler taught it: Divide and conquer. We thought we could stay out. We couldn't.

BUT WE DIDN'T get in till he owned most of the Continent of Europe, knocking off the democracies one by one. Only Britain and a few neutrals stayed out of his hands. Yet, the democracies were our friends, not Hitler.

If we had learned World War I's lesson, and let Hitler know before he got started that we'd support the democracies, he might have started. Next class: United Nations. Having learned now we'd always be neck-deep in Europe's doings, we joined U. N. to keep peace.

Next class: U. N. wasn't working. Russia picked up where Hitler left off, began gobbling up the nations of Eastern Europe.

Next class: We decided to do something about the lesson learned from Hitler—that any strong power, which could pick off one country after another in Europe, could dominate Europe and maybe the world.

So we set up the Truman doctrine. Under the old Monroe doctrine we wouldn't let a foreign power get a foothold on this continent lest it endanger us.

Under the Truman doctrine we said the world was smaller now. Our frontiers were no longer our own shores, that our frontiers henceforth would be any place in the world where we thought danger might start for us.

We began the Truman doctrine by giving help to Greece and Turkey to put a brake on Russia.

Next class: We extended the Truman doctrine. Realizing the democracies in the west, weakened by the war, wouldn't be any match for Russia if she reached out for them, directly or indirectly, we set up the Marshall plan to get them on their feet with goods and money.

Next class: The Communists grabbed off Czechoslovakia. That made a solid wall of Communist countries facing the western democracies.

NEXT CLASS: Those democracies, jittery about Russia, got together, formed the western European union, called the Brussels pact.

Purpose: Mutual defense against attack from the East. Taking part: Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg.

On the day the Brussels pact was formed, March 17, 1948, President Truman told congress:

"This development deserves our full support. I am confident that the United States will, by appropriate means, extend to the free nations the support which the situation requires."

Three months later, on June 11, 1948, the U. S. senate gave its blessing to this country's taking part in a defense set up like the Brussels pact.

So, in the summer of 1948 this country started talking with the Brussels pact countries and Canada to extend the pact.

Last Friday the North Atlantic alliance was announced. Taking part: U. S., Canada, Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Norway.

Italy, Portugal, Iceland and Denmark were invited to join. What's the purpose?

To help each other arm: To help

YOU'RE Unlucky!

YOU THINK you've had it tough sometimes? Listen to Frau Ottilie Wespahl, 71-year-old Berliner employed to clear rubble in the shadow of the Brandenburg Gate. She lost her husband in World War I. Post-war inflation wiped out her savings, but she finally accumulated funds to open a small bakery in 1928. The Nazis took care of that in 1934, closing the shop "for political reasons." Frau Wespahl then became a scrubwoman. Came World War II. An Allied bomb destroyed her home and her only son was killed at Stalingrad. (Internationals)

Ohio Basketball Championship Semi-Finals Opening Today

Country's Largest Cage Tournament Goes Into Action Before Sellouts

BY FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, March 24—(AP)—Ohio's high school basketball championship tournament opens today—the climax of the country's biggest cage carnival.

The historic, memory-filled coliseum at Ohio State fairgrounds is the scene as four Class A and four Class B quintets go into the three-day drive to the most coveted titles in Buckeye scholastic athletics.

Weeks ago 215 Class A and 945 Class B teams started down the long tournament trail.

Today only eight of the 1150 are still in the race for the crowns won a year ago by Findlay's Trojans in Class A, and Eaton in Class B. Of the eight, two are former champions, Hamilton Public taking the Class A crown in 1937, and North Canton grabbing the Class B laurels in 1939.

Only the Class B teams see action today. New Lexington of Perry county boasting 26 wins and one loss, meets Delphos St. John (27-3) at 2:30 p. m., and North Canton (22-6) tangles with Lockland Wayne (30-1) at 8 p. m.

The Class A group wheels in Friday, with Niles (13-9) meeting Hamilton Public (23-1) at 2:30 p. m., and the Central Catholic club of Toledo (25-3) meeting Akron E. Vincent (17-5) in the evening. Finals in both classes are set for Saturday.

Three parochial schools, one all-Negro institution and four other public schools make up the field.

No Catholic school has even won the Class A championship, but two of the state's Class A parochial teams are still in the fight. Three times the Class B crown has gone to parochial teams, Akron St. Mary winning in 1929, Lancaster St. Mary in 1930, and Sandusky St. Mary in 1936.

Parochial teams were defeated in each class in last year's finals as Hamilton Catholic fell before Findlay, and Lima St. Rose bowed to Eaton.

Last year the four teams from the western half of the state defeated the four eastern representatives in the semi-finals, and the same thing is possible this year, due to the "luck of the draw."

This afternoon's fray was a sell-out, but H. W. Emswiler, state high school athletic commissioner, said the public might be able to pick up around 2500 ducats for tonight's game. All the other sessions are up to the "standing room only" status.

One of the state's unusual athletes appears in this afternoon's game as Dave Schmelzer of Delphos St. Johns takes the floor. The 17-year-old six-foot two-inch senior has poured more than 500 points through the hoop this year, despite the fact he can see only about 10 feet.

He shoots with either hand, and scores on about 50 percent of his shots. Delphos handed Toledo Central Catholic, one of the Class A finalists, a 54-40 defeat early in the campaign, and Dave got 20. His high mark is 37 against Delphos Jefferson, cross-town rival. He's near the top scholastically. His duel with Bill Wollenberg, New Lexington's ace, should be a thing of beauty.

Anderson, B-G Coach, Considering New Offer

BOWLING GREEN, March 24—(INS)—Harold Anderson, athletic director and basketball coach at Bowling Green university, reported today that he is seriously considering "a tempting offer" from another prominent Ohio school.

Anderson, who piloted Bowling Green to national cage prominence, refused to name the school which has made him the offer, but added that the salary proffered is much more than a state school such as Bowling Green can pay.

In seven years at Bowling Green, five of Anderson's cage combines have fought their way to the National Collegiate invitational tournament.

CHICAGO MAY BE SITE OF BATTLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Louis Picks Windy City To Stage Walcott-Charles Fight For Title

CHICAGO, March 24—(AP)—Joe Louis, in his new role as boxing promoter, has picked Chicago for the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight scrap for the title.

It was in Chicago's Comiskey park Louis lifted the heavyweight crown from Jim Braddock in 1937 and it may be in the same ball park next June that the proposed 15-round match between Charles and Walcott takes place. The date might be June 22, the night Louis won the championship in the White Sox park nearly 12 years ago. The date and site will be announced later.

The Charles-Walcott bout would be for the National Boxing Association's version of the heavyweight championship. New York, one of the two states not a member of the NBA, has suggested an "elimination" tournament for Louis' title and will not recognize the Charles-Walcott winner as champion. Massachusetts is the other non-NBA state.

Louis announced the Charles-Walcott affair yesterday with his partners in the New International Boxing club. They are Arthur Wirtz and James D. Norris, Chicago stadium and Detroit Olympia executives. The new combine will appear Monday before the Illinois Athletic commission and request a license.

The retired heavyweight champion said Chicago was picked as a site "after carefully considering substantial offers from Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Cincinnati." He said Sam Becker, Cincinnati promoter, offered to guarantee a $500,000 gate.

BARONS MUST WIN TO STAY IN RACE

Play Aroused Springfield In Playoff Series Game At Springfield

(By International News Service) The "soft" easterners who were expected to find the west "wild" found it very tame in the first round of the American Hockey league's playoff eliminations, but the western sector's St. Louis, Indianapolis and Cleveland hope to even the series tonight.

The St. Louis Flyers invaded the Providence Reds' stronghold for the second of their best-of-four-of-seven games. The Reds grounded the Flyers' scoring attack Tuesday night, 7-2.

The Indianapolis 'Caps are gunning for an even split with Hershey as they tackle the Bears in chocolate town. A win for the Bears tonight would knock Indianapolis out of the next round of the playoffs. Hershey took the first game by a 5-0 count.

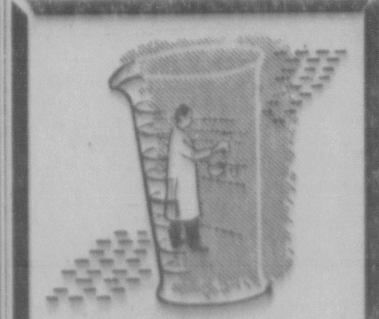

The Cleveland Barons, defending champs of the league, will have to stop the suddenly aroused Springfield Indians tonight or they also face elimination. Springfield crushed the Barons 8-4 Tuesday night.

In the National league, Montreal travels to Detroit and Toronto goes to Boston in the National league Stanley cup playoff fights. Detroit took the first contest from Montreal, 2-1, in the third overtime period. Toronto blanked Boston, 3-0.

COMPARISON ON TOURNAMENT 'A' TEAM IS GIVEN

By JIM DAILEY
COLUMBUS, March 24—(UP)—Thumblin sketches of Class A state tournament teams:

TOLEDO CENTRAL CATHOLIC—Coach Larry Bondy is a graduate of Toledo DeSales college and Pat McCarthy, athletic director, was an All-American center at Notre Dame. Four of the starters are 6-2, and the outfit's key man, Guard Gene Hickey, is only 6-foot. Jerry McCloskey at center and Dick at forward are brothers who present a one-two scoring punch. The Irish are the fastest big club in the tournament, if not the fastest, period.

They like the run both on offense and defense, and one of their best weapons is a constantly pressing defense that never leaves the opposition. However, when the ball does get down to their territory they can slip into a zone without losing a stroke. Lost three games during the season.

AKRON ST. VINCENTS—Coached by Ed Wentz, who says his boys like to run with the other guys and wear them out. The two guards—Leo Longville, 5-9, and Frank Stams 5-11—are the main cogs. Longville is considered the playmaker and the boy who brings the ball inside, and Stams is probably the smallest pivot man in the tournament. Tallest man is Center Art Hunter at 6-3.

Wentz also likes the pressing defense and it should be quite a spectacle Friday night when the St. Vincents Irish start putting the pressure on the Toledo Central Irish for they both go by that nickname. Wentz's offense is to keep moving speedily, improvising as you go. St. Vincents has lost five games.

NILES—Coached by Joe Bassett, who says he likes to think of his boys as "opportunists." Forward John Weber a 6-2 is the top scoring threat, and Center Larry Lobaugh is the tallest boy at 6-4. Bassett would like to correct the impression that his boys "are cheese champions" because they've gotten this far in spite of losing nine games.

He says that his team was absolutely a new one in the beginning. Niles having lost its entire first string last year, and thus were defeated in some early season games from lack of experience. About the middle of the season they started to come back, he says, and when they hit tournament time they were ready. Bassett tries the fast break during the first part of the game, and if it doesn't work goes into a set pattern offense.

HAMILTON PUBLIC—Coach Warren Scholler says he has nine first stringers but starts the five who are seniors for their added experience. Forward Bill Wilks, 6-feet, is the top scorer and Forward Gene Baldwin, 6-1, is the captain. Jim Bailey, 6-1, Negro center, is a football hot-shot and brings the ball to the opposition.

Scholler says he adjusts his play according to the defense but likes to use the fast break. Hamilton starts with a double pivot but if things get complicated switch to the conventional single pivot. Scholler also likes to run because he has the reserves. Scholler uses the shifting man-to-man defense almost exclusively. Hamilton lost one big game, that an early season defeat at Portsmouth. The Big Blue has been awarded number one favorite status by most experts.

Will Stay At Post
EAST LANSING, Mich., March 24—Forest Evashevski, Michigan State basketball coach, yesterday said he would remain in current position.

Last week he had gone to Corvallis, Ore., to discuss football coaching job at Oregon State college.

DEPARTMENT OF Musing

The Boosters go "all out" to promote track interest at the Memorial building tonight... Dillard, Finnigan and Springer is the program card, with a selection of good films tossed in for good measure... The venture should be a big success and a word of appreciation to the Boosters, and Fritz Bichsel, their president, is well placed... Joe Kelley's big independent cage tournament is slated to begin next Monday evening... It will run all week long, which means a week of "nights out" for a large collection of town cage addicts... Kelley, as usual, isn't swamped with applications for entrance to the tourney... They always roar in on the last day...

Training Camp Bits, Info

(By The Associated Press)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 24—(AP)—The absence of extra base punch on his club is one of the big worries of Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees. The Yankees, notorious as fence busters, haven't been belting the ball with much gusto in recent exhibition games.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The Pat Seery rumors in the Chicago White Sox camp took a new turn today. Manager Jack Onslow spiked a report that the portly former Cleveland outfielder would be sold to the Los Angeles club.

"Seery will not be sold to anybody," said Onslow. "I have not given up on him, but he is going to get down to playing weight before he breaks into the starting lineup." Seery weighed 220 yesterday.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Baseball observers in this area are beginning to like the Boston Red Sox pitching. Tex Hughson went for five innings yesterday, gave two hits and walked none. Even Bucky Walters, a great pitcher and now manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said Texas, useless last season, "again looks like a pitcher instead of a thrower." Catcher Birdie Tebbetts said Tex was as fast in the fifth as in the first inning.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Red Lively is the current hot-shot of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff and he believes it's all because of a crouch.

The six-foot one-inch hurler from Gardendale, Ala., stood on the mound straight as a bean stalk when Cincinnati fans saw him early last year and in 1947. He was shipped out to the Reds' Tulsa farm early in the 1948 season and finished with a 15-4 record.

It was in Tulsa that he developed the crouch and he brought it with him to the Reds' spring training camp this spring.

Red's control is excellent. Kent Peterson will share the pitching chores with Lively in the Reds' game today with the Washington Senators.

The Reds ran into a flock of good pitching yesterday as they fell before the Boston Red Sox, 5-3, at Sarasota. Veteran Tex Hughson and Mel Parnell doled out just three hits as their mates were clubbing Reddy pitching for nine, seven of them off Starter Ken Raffensberger.

LOS ANGELES—"Good" pitch, no hit" is the problem of the World Champion Cleveland Indians as they try for their first win in five games today against the Chicago Cubs. Satchel Paige will start for the Indians.

Against the St. Louis Browns yesterday, Tribe Pitchers Dick Rezek and Will Hefey allowed but seven hits. The Indians got nine, but lost the ball game 6 to 5. The

Honor Mount Cager

ALLIANCE, March 24—Bill Herman, Mount Union college's leading basketball scorer, has been honored by two of the Balder opponents of the past season.

Washington and Jefferson's Presidents put Herman at a first string guard post on their all-opponent team, while the Kent State Golden Flashes gave him honorable mention on their all-opponent squad. This year Herman wound up a four-year basketball career on the Hill Top, and has established himself as one of the all-time greats of cage history at Mount Union.

BATON ROUGE, La.—Louisiana State heavyweight boxer Jack Dyer doubles in the hurdles.

The New York A. C. is contributing $2,000 each year to the U.S. Olympic Fund from the proceeds of its annual indoor track meet.

Hanoverton Man's Gun Collection Is Extensive

"Johnny get your gun, get your gun" was a familiar ditty during the stirring days of World War I. And John Ritchey in neighboring Hanoverton did get his gun, but he didn't march off to war.

There's a twinkle in his eye as he shows his first gun, made with his own hands out of a piece of poplar when he was around seven years old.

Since that time Ritchey has bought and traded scores of guns from Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, but he still cherishes his first one.

His fine collection of approximately 100 guns, tells a story of firearms from the early 1800's to modern ones.

While the love of guns is in his blood, the veteran collector is not given to hunting game. His interest centers in target shooting.

The second firearm owned by Ritchey, was a muzzle loading rifle, made by William Johnson, who operated a gun factory in Hanoverton in the 60's. He purchased it from his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dutton for $4. A neighbor gave it to her in payment for hay. The forearm and stock is made of curly maple.

Civil War Vintage

Muzzle loader types were used in the Civil war. Loaded from the end, a ramrod was used to put the charge down into the gun. Ritchey quotes General Grant as saying, "If we could eliminate the ramrod for the cavalry troops, we could win the rebellion with the cavalry in two weeks." The Civil war marked the end of the muzzle loader. It was followed by the breech loader.

Another old-timer in his collection, patented in 1837, was made at the Harper's Ferry arsenal, and is reputed to be "the pink of perfection" for that time. It takes a "minnie ball" to fire this one. This ball is similar to a "pumpkin ball," now used to shoot deer.

Historians reveal, that for ammunition, stones were the first missiles. Then came lead, brass and iron balls. Primitive gunpowder, called "serpentine powder" was like a coarse meal. Among his treasures is an old powder flask with a measure attached.

A second Harper's Ferry model, dated 1818, has a patch box in the black walnut stock, with an automatic release.

An heirloom he prizes highly, is a full stock curly maple muzzle loader shotgun, which came to him from his great-grandfather, William Clark, a native of Ireland.

The word "Colt" is synonym for revolver, and Ritchey has one of the Colt models of Civil war days.

Samuel Colt, the inventor, was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1814, and his boyhood was one of poverty and hard work. However, by his genius, perseverance and personality he realized his ambitions.

It is said of him, that he was one of few men who foresaw the Civil war. He enlarged his factory and installed additional machinery to meet this crisis.

The collector has an early Springfield, with a ramrod bayonet, 45-90 caliber. This type is said to be very scarce.

In his collection is a duplicate of the Remington- Derringer pistol, which the late President William McKinley was shot with. Among others are an early Remington, single shot pistol, dated 1861; a six-barrel pepper-box pistol, hand engraved; French flint horse pistol, 14-inch barrel, brass mounted.

French gun, single shot, dated 1866, and a Butterfly shot gun.

The Butterfly was given its name because of its light weight. It is mostly used for squirrel hunting.

Ritchey has been employed as a helper in the press room of the Alliance Mfg. Co., plant for the past seven years.

RAIL LABOR LAW STIRS COMPLAINTS

Rumblings Over Cross
Purposes May Bring
Congress Check-Up

WASHINGTON, March 24—(AP)—A breakdown in the railroads' own labor law is troubling employment peace in the industry. Failure of the law's employer-employee machinery for settling worker grievances has stirred up a series of strikes and threatened strikes on individual railroads. Grievance settlement has been a rough spot in the Railway Labor law for years. It has gotten so much worse recently that some experts are suggesting congress may have to take another look soon at the law it created in 1926. The separate labor law for railroads puts them outside the Taft-Hartley act. It provides that disputes over agreeing on new contracts shall be handled by the National Mediation board, sometimes with the help of emergency boards appointed by the President. But a separate national railroad adjustment board is responsible for settling grievances, or disputes about interpreting contracts once they have been agreed upon. Hit Early Trouble Almost from the start this adjustment board, composed of equal numbers of rail labor and management representatives, ran into trouble. Its work is divided among three divisions. Most of the recent trouble has been with the first division. It handles grievances among the more than 300,000 railroad operating workers—engineers, firemen, trainmen, conductors and switchmen. Their contracts are more complicated than those of the other rail labor unions. Grievances have been piling up by the thousands of cases in the first division. Experts having studied the situation say too many inconsequential cases have been filed. Some important cases have been allowed to stay on the docket, unsettled, for years. The first division has a backlog of more than 2,500 unsettled grievances. The operating unions got fed up. For some time now they have refused to bring new cases to the adjustment board. What is happening is that when a union or group of unions has 60 or 80 unsettled grievances a strike is called. This has led to establishment of

By GAYNOR MADDOX
FOR a low-cost food combination packed with nutritional values and sheer eating pleasure, look to sauerkraut and frankfurters. Sauerkraut, Potato and Frankfurters. Two cups sauerkraut, 1/2 cup sauerkraut juice, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 1 cup finely grated potatoes (raw), 4 to 8 frankfurters. Combine sauerkraut, juice, onion, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and grated potatoes in a saucepan. Cook over moderate heat stirring frequently until potatoes are cooked. Cut frankfurters part way through on one side in parallel cuts about 1/4 inch apart. Sauté in remaining butter until golden brown. Frankfurters will curl as they cook; so if two frankfurters are served with each serving of sauerkraut, place the frankfurters so that they form a ring about the sauerkraut. Krautfurter Cheese Bake (Serves 4) Three cups sauerkraut, 1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds, 6 frankfurters, 1 1/2 cups shredded sharp cheese. Combine sauerkraut and caraway seeds. Place half of the sauerkraut in the bottom of a greased casserole. Cut frankfurters in half lengthwise. Arrange half of the frankfurters on top of sauerkraut and sprinkle with half the cheese. Repeat layers. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Kraut and Frankfurter Vegetable Creole (Serves 6) Eight frankfurters, 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine, two 11-ounce cans vegetable soup (condensed), 1/2 cup water, 4 cups sauerkraut. Slice frankfurters into 1/4-inch pieces. Sauté in butter or margarine until golden brown. Add vegetable soup and water. Cook until thoroughly hot and blended. Meanwhile heat sauerkraut over low heat, stirring occasionally. When both sauerkraut and frankfurter mixture are hot, serve frankfurter mixture over mounds of kraut. There were two full moons during March, 1934.

Lusty Tug-of-War Going On In Clothing District

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—There's a lusty tug-of-war going on down in the clothing district. And right in the middle is the cost of your fall suit. They may be able to tear a little off its price tag, if the contest isn't called for time first.

On one side are most of the woolen mills, who say they can't cut cloth prices, because of the cost of wool and of labor. On the other are the suit makers, who are betting on the mills having to cut prices anyway, because men aren't buying suits at present prices in anything like inspiring quantity.

They'll have to decide the tug-of-war probably in a couple of weeks or so, or all concerned may lose. Cutters aren't buying any cloth just now. They say the price is too high if they are going to make suits they can sell. They hope their reluctance will force the mills to cut prices, even if it means a loss, in order to keep operating.

Prices Cut

One worsted mill, Metcalf Brothers & Co., cut prices 30 cents a yard—from $4.20 to $3.90 a yard for the standard 13-13½-ounce, 64s single-filled worsted suiting, if you want to be technical.

The cutters sat on their hands. They want $3.75. The 30-cent cut, they say, would mean only a $1.50 drop in suit prices, if labor and other costs remain constant. This shows how small a part fabric plays in the cost of a suit, compared to labor and mark-ups along the way.

The granddaddy of the mills, American Woolen Mills, says it isn't going to follow Metcalf's price-cutting example, not yet, anyway. Other mills say they won't either, unless the other fellow starts the price war. Then, the indicate, they'd have to.

The time deadline arises because: 1. The mills need more orders for cloth soon to justify setting up work schedules this spring on fall fabrics. If the cutters' price balk means price cuts, some mills might prefer operating at a slight loss than to close down at even greater expense.

2. Suit cutters must put in their orders soon. It takes time for the mills to fill the orders; more time for the cutters to make the suits; more time to get them onto retail racks in readiness for the day when you may be moved to go shopping for fall togs. The suit makers are due to open their fall lines of men's wear just after Easter.

The mills moved first. They announced fall price lines last month. They said they strained every possible point to keep fall prices at the same level as spring lines.

Retailers Pained

Retailers were the most pained. They said that since last fall the only way they could move their large inventories in any quantity was to hold mark-down sales. They doubted if customers next fall would buy new suits at the old high prices.

As usual in this industry, there was much contention. Suit makers said why didn't the mills cut prices? The mills said how could they cut prices with labor and wool high, and why didn't the retailers try harder to sell suits?

Meanwhile, the market is at a standstill, both sides waiting to see which one will give—whether the mills will lure customers back with lower prices, or whether the cutters will have to start buying at the old figure.

Retailers have been able to reduce inventories by 9 per cent since the October peak, although they are still 29 percent higher than a year ago, the market planning service, a division of the National Credit Office, Inc., reports.

St. Louis, Mo., is not in any county. It is an independent city within a state.

Murder Victim

Four teen-age youths are held in Milwaukee for questioning in the mysterious disappearance and murder of Patricia Birmingham, 16, whose weighted body was recovered from the Milwaukee river. A bizarre development in the case was a solution to a second disappearance in the Birmingham family. Patricia's elder sister, Kathleen (bottom), 17, who vanished several days ago, notified her mother that she had married her childhood sweetheart, Milton Babich, 19, in Ohio. (International Soundphotos)

Teachers Get Extra Pay

SPRINGFIELD, March 24—Cost-of-living bonuses were voted employees and teachers of the Springfield public schools by the board of education today. Teachers and principals will be paid a lump sum of $200 on June 15. Other employees are to get weekly or monthly increases for the balance of the year only. The latter will range from $3 weekly to $22 monthly.

Shoes Need Care To Last Longer

If you are a millionaire, a hobo, or both, don't bother to take care of your shoes. Millionaires don't have to worry about getting extra mileage out of their brogans, (although many custom bootmakers insist that they do), and after one reaches the six cipher class it becomes less essential for one to appear well-groomed and successful. A hobo would appear ridiculous in well polished shoes.

Most others, from the office boy up to the big boss, realize that well groomed shoes pay off in more ways than one. In the first place, shoes, properly cared for, last much longer. Polishing with a good wax or cream restores the oil, which dries out with age and wetting, and keeps the leather supple. This prevents cracking.

Shoes that are kept on shoetrees when not actually in use will tend to keep their shape for a much longer period of time. And last, but certainly not least, is the lift that well shined footwear gives to the complete ensemble.

On the negative side, a pair of scuffed and dirty shoes can ruin the effect of an otherwise perfect outfit.

Would Boost Railroad Costs On Crossings

COLUMBUS, March 24—(INS)—A three-member house commerce and transportation subcommittee today began rewriting a bill to require railroads to pay a greater share of the cost of grade crossing elimination projects.

The committee, composed of Reps. George Hook (D) of Brown county, Frank King (D) of Lucas county and Newton Chapman (R) of Geauga county, was appointed after officials of Fostoria, Canton and Euclid suggested the bill be amended.

Fostoria Solicitor James Guernsey first suggested to the full committee that a commission be established to fix a fair ratio of cost in each individual instance between the city and the railroad. Present law requires that the cities bear 85 percent of the cost and the railroads only 15 percent.

Guernsey proposed that the percentages be fixed between the present figures and the figures proposed in the bill of Rep. Joseph Dubar (D) of Canton which would require the railroads to pay 75 percent of the cost and the cities 25 percent.

Rabies Scare In State

CINCINNATI, March 24—Dr. J. Philip Owens, Hamilton county health commissioner, yesterday ordered a 90-day dog quarantine in seven townships in the western part of the county. Dr. Owens said five positive cases of rabies have been found in the area in the last month. Under the quarantine, all dogs must be kept in pens or on a leash.

THERE'S NO SPOT LIKE HOME FOR THOSE ACCIDENTS

BY WILLIAM J. CONWAY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
CHICAGO — There's a no place like home—if you like to live dangerously.

That may not sound right to you. You probably regard your home as the one safe harbor on the riled sea of postwar life. If you think so, you are wrong. And if you think you are safest in the peace and quiet of your bedroom, you are wrong again. Nowhere under the roof are the risks greater.

The national safety council has compiled figures that show there were more accidental deaths in homes than anywhere else last year. More than one-third (34,500) of the 98,000 lives lost in 1948 accidents were lost in homes. Fatal injuries increased in homes while they declined in traffic, on the job and in other categories.

What's the reason? Well, the population of the U. S. is growing. People are living longer. There have been bumper crops of babies. That means there are more old folks and more small children around. The very old and the very young are the ones most likely to get hurt.

Must Stab At Answers
Experts are on the solid ground of fact when they point to those factors. But there are other fields of thought where they can only theorize and ask questions.

The housing shortage has caused thousands of families to double up. Many households are overcrowded. How many old folks, used to order, are living in a clutter of their grandchildren's toys?

In how many new houses have safety features been eliminated to cut costs? How many jerry-built rooms have been knocked together in attics and basements with such built-in perils as steep, narrow stairs and makeshift wiring?

Homes may be deathtraps for an even greater number of Americans in the future. There are current influences that could keep people in homes more than they are now—growing unemployment, television, less cash for evenings out. No matter where you spend your days and evenings, you have to sleep some time. That may be one of the reasons why the sleeping chamber is the most dangerous part of the house.

A council analysis of fatal home accidents based on detailed information recorded by the state of Kansas and Nassau county, New York, shows that one-fourth of such accidents occur in bedrooms.

They are the result of a wide range of half-awake actions—such things as smoking in bed, leaping out of bed in the dark, skidding on a throw rug, tripping on a light cord.

The other home accident locations in the order of their menace to life, are the yard, kitchen, inside stairs, living room, outside stairs, bathroom, dining room, porch, hall, basement, garage.

You can't it would seem, be safe anywhere. But you can be careful.

Other Actions In Ohio Legislature

In the state legislature yesterday: Introduced in the senate was a bill by Sen. Edwin F. Sawicki (D-Cuyahoga) to require pre-primary state nominating conventions. District, county and city conventions would be optional.

The house passed proposals to permit more than one probate judge in a county and to raise top pay of jail matrons from $150 to $200 monthly.

Speaker John F. Cantwell (D-Mahoning) warned representatives they would be fined $20 for skipping Monday night or Thursday morning sessions. That's when the legislature opens and closes its work week. He said 40 members were absent last Thursday.

The senate highway committee recommended passage of a house-approved bill to ban television receivers in front seats of automobiles.

Backers of an initiated bill to permit manufacture and sale of colored cello in Ohio said it may be reported out of the house labor committee this week.

Up for hearing in committees are proposals to authorize construction of a Lake Erie-Ohio river conveyor belt line, create a civil defense section in the adjutant general's office and investigate Ohio telephone service.

Clan Gets-Together

MAYFIELD, Ky.—Apparently the Boaz clan isn't one to rush blindly into anything.

Some 250 Boazes in six states and Canada gathered here for a family reunion, the first since Thomas Boaz came to the United States from Scotland in 1740.

They decided they liked the idea and now plan to have another one next summer.

Too Far Up Is Problem

ST. LOUIS—Safety inspections of giant radio and television towers here are giving a headache to A. H. Baum, building commissioner. He says he certainly isn't going to climb them, nor will he ask his employees to risk doing so. The commissioner also doubts that "gawking" at the towers from sidewalk level would constitute an adequate inspection.

Baum said he will suggest to the board of aldermen that tower owners be required to hire their own inspectors. Then for a $2 fee, the building department will inspect the report of the inspecting engineer.
